

THIS POLE-VAULTER TO REPRESENT U. S.

Sam Bellah.

In recent Olympic try-outs held at Stanford University for Pacific Multnomah Athletic club of Portland, Oregon, barely missed setting a new world's record when he pole vaulted 12 feet, 9 5-8 inches. Bellah's work in the pole vault, javelin throw and broad jump practically assures him a place on the American Olympic team.

A Mean Shock.

Johnny Adolphus Jones was one of the boys. And, strange as it may seem, he thought he was in love with one of the girls.

"Amy," he said earnestly, yearningly, when he had managed to get rid of her three little brothers and bundled her small cousin out of the room, "there is something I want to say to you. There is something that has been trembling on my lips for the last two months."

The girl looked at him critically.

"I know there is," she answered brightly. "Why don't you shave it off?"

Thus his love was shattered at a single blow.—Toronto Star.
